Fast food is very popular with children and many (grow ups – growing up – grew up) , but is it good ? It contains normal ingredients like meat or vegetables, but many experts say it is (healthy - nutritious – harmful). What is the problem? The fat? The soft drinks? The size of hamburgers and desserts? One thing is true: in the countries where people eat a lot of fast food they are more likely to suffer from (obesity – smoking – pollution) –related problems, higher cholesterol rates and more heart problems. This happens in USA, but doctors predict that many other countries (will soon have – soon had – soon have) the same problems, because fast food is now popular all over the world. Fast food is not new. The Romans sold cooked meat and bread with wine in the streets. But this food was only for the people who didn't live in those cities and (could not – did not have to – might not) cook. So be careful, a hamburger or a hot dog are OK once a week, but that's all. The rest of the week try to eat more vegetables and fruit and exercise more (since – thus – unless) you will be happier.

2° Fill in the blanks with the appropriate words from the list below. There are 2 extra ones (3 mks) :

suffer - logging - litter - careless - endangering - protect – contribute - awareness

I am writing to complain about the state of the dump, formerly known as Greenford Park, which can be seen from the front of my house. Are we, as local residents, expected to from the misuse and probable ruination of this once useful, attractive amenity without expressing our feelings? The frequent dropping of in the form of cans, fast-food packaging, etc., the deliberate dumping of an old mattress, damage to the few remaining trees and wild plants from vehicles either crossing the area or parking on it, the behaviour of dog owners who allow their pets to foul the area without any attempt to clear up the mess that remains resulting in public health. Added to these obvious forms of pollution, there is the noise from portable music-making devices in fine weather, which must to the disappearance of the rabbits, badgers, and other species from this once beautifully unspoilt wild area. In these days of conservation and "green" I should have thought that our government might leap at the chance to create an area that would promote the preservation of plants and wildlife.

3° Supply the right tense or form of the bracketed words (3 mks) :

In Britain today, more above (18 years old) vote in TV shows like pop idol than in general elections. All political parties (constantly try) to encourage more young people to get involved in politics. This means talking about the issues that are important to them. The first political party to make the environment an important issue was The Green Party. They campaign on many issues including banning scientific experiments on animals and improving conditions for animals on farms, reducing the amount of traffic and pollution by making buses and trains (cheap) and encouraging people to walk and cycle more, investing in clean, (renew) sources of energy, and being against the use of chemicals in farming while encouraging consumers to purchase (grow in a natural way) food. Nowadays, people are realising that the earth is in danger. If we don't change our way of life, the results (be) disastrous for our planet
