III – WRITING (6mks)

Dear editor,

"I am Patricia woods. I will soon be fifteen years old. Five years ago, a girl, named Johanna, 12 years old then, started teasing me about my glasses. I got really worried and upset. I told my mum, who complained to the school. It would get better for a week, and then start again.

"When I went to secondary school, she was there; and some other girls who used to be my friends joined in. It made me cry. The rest of the class just ignored it. They didn't stick up for me."They probably thought they would get picked on, too. I used to be a lot more scared of teachers than I am now. In the past, I wouldn't tell them, but now I'd always tell them about bullying.

"During the first week of secondary school, whenever the main bully saw me she'd walk quickly towards me, hit me in the stomach and carry on walking. It happened between two classroom blocks."The teachers investigated it, but because a girl who witnessed it says she saw nothing, they say there's nothing they can do. So my mum took me out of school and is trying to get me taught at home.

I have anxiety problems and the doctor has signed me off."I want to go back to school. The bully should have to leave, not me. I want her to realise that what she's done has affected me badly."Tell me please what to do.

Yours
Patricia,
