I- READING COMPREHENSION (12 marks)

THE TEXT

- 1- Nine o'clock on Wednesday evening. All is suspiciously quiet in my 15-year-old daughter Laurie's normally noisy room. My youngest daughter, aged 11, comes downstairs and says her sister is on Facebook .
- 2- With her final exams now just weeks away, I am getting desperate. I call Laurie and beg her to start the laborious process of disabling her Facebook account." Dad, I can't do it ", she says. Of course, I could take matters into my own hands, take away her laptop and shut down our wireless connection at night, but I have strived to trust my children. What really concerns me isn't the stuff she is posting on her page, it's the worrying amount of time she spends logged on Facebook.
- 3- I am convinced that my daughter's techno-habit has turned her from a bright, well-read student to someone who stays up late, can't concentrate and will probably fail her exams. But this was partly our fault. We gave her a laptop and an unlimited access to the Internet, stupidly thinking that this would help her with her studies.
- 4- Discovering Laurie's habit was very disappointing and saddening because I had always presumed that Facebook was for the sad and the lonely –not for someone gifted with fully-formed social skills. Where she sees a useful communication tool, I see a mind-numbing, childish way of passing precious time. It requires constant commitment and gets you into trouble, too. As for her school work? Her grades have slipped dramatically and her teachers complain about her lack of application and concentration.
- 5- If I confront her, she flatly refuses to blame the Internet. Will she grow out of it? Maybe. Maybe not. I am doing my best to wean Laurie off Facebook.
